Huawei smartwatch series named Huawei Watch 3 has become the first smartwatch to have HarmonyOS 2 pre-installed.

On June 2, 2021, Huawei held a press conference to officially launch HarmonyOS, which aimed to provide a faster, smoother operating experience. On the same day, Huawei announced that it will continue to upgrade HarmonyOS 2.0 to its smart devices.

WHAT DOES HARMONYOS BRING TO HUAWEI WATCH 3

Huawei smartwatch series named Huawei Watch 3 has become the first smartwatch to have HarmonyOS 2 pre-installed. In general, there are three highlights brought by the HarmonyOS system, namely Internet of Everything, App Expansion, and eSIM support.

Internet of Everything: At Huawei's Harmony OS launch conference, the spokesman for the Huawei software department said the operating system, which uses distributed technology, covers all devices and achieves free hardware combinations, so as to achieve a more consistent system experience, realize the interconnection of every smart device, and bring better intelligent user experience.

Third-party Apps Expansion: Limited by US sanctions, Huawei choose to build its own apps and services without Google GMS. Huawei Watch3 series smartwatch supports more third-party apps to ensure software scalability, and its App Gallery realizes downloading apps without users' paired smartphones.

eSim Support: With eSim installed, Huawei Watch 3 allows users to make and receive a phone call, play music, and download apps without the phone. Furthermore, users can share the data plans between their smartphone and smartwatch by activating the eSIM service on their smartphones.
