iSite Lite Brings Property Estate Management to a Wider Customer Base

Nottingham, UK: iSite, a cloud-based property management platform, has announced the launch of iSite Lite – an entry-level solution for companies looking to manage multiple properties. After years supporting global businesses in estate management, iSite's new software offers users a selection of the platform's core features at a more accessible price point.

By unifying property datasets and establishing a single source of truth, iSite Lite gives its users the tools they need to manage their properties – including viewing property details, managing rent due dates, monitoring leases, finding key contacts, and creating reports. With this data at their fingertips, property owners can reduce their overhead, eliminate costly mistakes and make informed decisions about their properties.

"We're really excited about the launch of iSite Lite," said Ed Grover, Strategy and Property Consultant at iSite. "Commercial retail estate (CRE) software is essential for anyone managing multiple properties, whether that's a landlord or an operator running a retail, office, residential or hospitality business. And now, iSite Lite gives a whole new audience the opportunity to access property technology and see the benefits immediately."

iSite Lite is available to customers from today, with the option to sign up for a six-month free trial. For more information, please visit iSite: iSite is a commercial real estate (CRE) platform, designed to consolidate multiple datasets from various estates into a single source of truth. Founded in 2002 by Martin Ward, iSite has helped dozens of blue-chip companies streamline the management of their estates, driving efficiency and paving the way for more strategic business decisions. For more information, visit www.isite.co.uk.
