London, UK, [15th June 2021]: NTT Ltd., the world-leading global technology services provider, today announced that Sunil Kishore will join its team as Senior Executive Vice President (SEVP) Managed Network & Collaboration Services. Sunil will lead NTT's Managed Network & Collaboration Services division as NTT aims to deliver on its growth agenda and next generation of services.

Sunil joins NTT following almost 10 years with global advisory firm McKinsey & Company, where he was a Partner. With McKinsey & Company, Sunil has worked extensively with technology companies around the world on topics including strategy development, large-scale operational, growth, and digital transformations.

Abhijit Dubey, CEO, NTT Ltd. comments: "I'm thrilled to announce Sunil Kishore as the leader of our Managed Network & Collaboration Services division. He brings a deep understanding of our business and the transformation that we need to go through, as well as fantastic Networking experience. Sunil's expertise will be extremely valuable to NTT's growth strategy as we work with clients to ensure they have an intelligent, secure network fabric that moves and grows with their organization."

Commenting on his appointment Sunil said: "I'm delighted to be leading NTT's Managed Network & Collaboration Services division. The network fabric underpins every service and technology experience and it is a powerful enabler of change and business outcomes. The pandemic has made businesses realise how essential the network is to their success and I am looking forward to working with NTT's clients to deliver this.

NTT has a fantastic culture, with a focus on purpose and using technology for good. I'm excited to work with our team in over 73 countries around the world to achieve the huge growth potential that we have as a single powerhouse of global technology services."
