TPx, a premier managed services provider whose award-winning product lines include managed IT, managed security, contact center and unified communications, announced today that it has attained the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act (HIPAA) attestation for its Managed SD-WAN and Firewall solutions.

“We take security and privacy very seriously at TPx and achieving HIPAA compliance shows our commitment to delivering reliable and secure managed services for our healthcare customers,” said Jared Martin, Vice President of MSx Managed Services at TPx.

Healthcare continues to be a prime magnet for cyberattacks, with electronic health records being a lucrative target. With the rapid expansion of telehealth due to COVID-19, the need for data security has never been greater. Healthcare organizations increasingly turn to managed services providers (MSPs) to improve security postures and decrease operating costs. Compliance is thus a critical element for hospitals, doctors’ offices and healthcare organizations in today’s managed services environment.

“We evaluated our portfolio and decided to bring them all into a certified level of compliance. Our managed SD-WAN and Firewall solutions are just the beginning of our compliance efforts,” Martin said. “Our customers and our channel partners are looking for more outsourced IT options that are HIPAA

compliant, and we have an aggressive plan to certify our Managed Backup, Managed Endpoints, Managed Data Center and UCx solutions in the coming months.”

Verified by a third-party audit, TPx’s attestation confirms that technical, physical and administrative safeguards, as well as company policies and procedures, meet HIPAA requirements. With HIPAA compliance secured, TPx simplifies the buying process for customers, making their compliance audits much easier thanks to using a compliant service provider.
